Career Opportunities in Computer Science & Engineering

The world has entered the new millennium, which is going to be an Information Technology Age. Today, computers have not only assumed strategic importance in the corporate world but are also being effectively used in other fields ranging from space exploration to food processing and banking to communication, etc. In this era of information technology, which has revolutionized the whole world, India has stood up to world standards and is being regarded worldwide for its skilled IT professionals. Even the government has recognized the promising future of the industry and has formed a new IT ministry, which will further boost this industry. Computer Science (CS) is a broad subject that includes programming, development, computing solutions, designing systems, procedures, database management, networking and system administration, hardware, and more.

Nature of Work

Information technology is the use of computers and software to manage information. In some companies, this is referred to as Management Information Systems (MIS) or simply as Information Services (IS). The information technology department would be responsible for storing information, protecting information, processing the information, transmitting the information and late retrieving necessary information.

Employment Opportunities in Computer Science & Engineering

The rapid and widespread use of computers and information technology has generated a need for highly trained workers proficient in various job functions. The job prospects for computer engineers are increasing rapidly both in India and abroad. System study, analysis, design, and programming are the main areas that provide various options to computer science and engineering graduates to shape themselves in their careers. Software and IT companies are the main employers of these graduates. They can also find job opportunities in many places, such as schools, colleges, universities, research, private and public industries, government departments, business organizations, and commercial organizations. They can work as programmers, web developers, and E-commerce specialists to build or use computer-based systems, such as automotive, telecommunications, aerospace, etc., in the data processing departments of modern industries and in areas where computer-aided systems are used.

Career Opportunities in Management

Traditionally, the term management refers to the activities (and often the group of people) involved in the four general functions: planning, organizing, leading, and controlling. These four functions recur throughout the organization and are highly integrated. Management today is not confined to the four walls of a factory; it is indispensable everywhere, whether it is a hospital, an educational institution, a club, a trade union, a small business, or even one's own home. In our age of technology, when we view our very own global market, it is amazing to find career opportunities in different fields of management- human resources, financial resources, and natural resources; in the field of management, one is taught to work with a term, in order to achieve some predefined goals and targets of the particular organization by creating a suitable atmosphere conducive for growth, development and healthy relationships amongst all the members.

Nature of Work

The work of a manager is to get work done by others. Some of the functions of the manager are decision-making, organizing, staffing, planning, controlling, communicating, and directing. Decision-making is the process by which a course of action is consciously chosen from available alternatives. Organizing is the process by which the structure and allocation of jobs are determined. Staffing is the process by which managers select, train, promote, and retire workers. Planning is the process by which a manager anticipates the future and discovers alternative courses of action open to him. Controlling is the process that measures current performance and guides it toward some predetermined goal.

Employment Opportunities in Management

Business management today is one of the most sought-after career options. For aspirants, this has opened limitless opportunities in diverse spheres with the promise of rewards in the form of good remuneration, status, and scope for professional and personal growth. Various sectors in which a person can work and specialize are Banks, public sector enterprises, industrial houses, business houses, financial organizations, export companies, marketing organizations, multinational companies, etc.
